

About your training

Introduction

Our training courses are based in central London close to Euston and Kings Cross mainline stations. There are a variety of hotels close by as well as all of London's attractions. The courses include all refreshments and a full lunch.

Venue

Amacatis has partnered with Birbeck College to deliver courses. Birbeck College is ideally situated for both Euston and Kings Cross stations. Less than a 10-minute walk from Euston Station, Birbeck is in the heart of the academic area of Bloomsbury which is quiet with beautiful squares, cafes and restaurants.

Your trainer

Graeme Youngs

Graeme was one of the first certified Articulate trainers in the world.

He's trained over a thousand students how to use Articulate software ranging from complete beginners to highly experienced designers both in the UK and around the world. Graeme was also responsible for training and validating Articulate certified training centres throughout Europe.

Graeme has used this experience to create a completely new set of training materials.

“With these materials, I’ve aimed to build skills progressively and focus on the critical areas of using the software successfully,” said Graeme. “For less confident students, the lessons build gradually whereas for faster learners, there are optional exercises to really challenge their understanding.”

As a learning designer, content developer and experienced presenter, Graeme brings a wealth of practical knowledge to his classes. He has developed a huge variety of e-learning courses on topics including compliance, health and safety, sales/marketing, technical, applications and many, many more. He uses this background to bring topics to life and provide context for the practical uses of Storyline.

Location

Around Birbeck College, there are a range of hotels or other options from the nearby tube & mainline stations.

The training rooms are bright and airy as you would expect from a modern academic institution. The building has a Costa coffee café and numerous breakout areas. The course includes refreshments and lunch at the Fifth Floor Eatery which serves a range of drinks, hot and cold food. The Fifth Floor Eatery is open until late until 10.00pm and has an outside terrace to enjoy your meals.
